

James Jackson Memorial Award

Applications due

Friday, April 16, 2021

This award is named in honor of the late Dr. James Jackson, a renowned social psychologist who changed the way the field examined and understood Black life and mental health in the United States.

Criteria:

All nominees must:

- ▶ Be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident of the United States
- ▶ Have an established record of independent research in mental health
- ▶ Have demonstrated innovative contributions to mental health disparities research, including identifying, developing, testing, or implementing solutions to the mental health disparities and diversity challenges facing the field
- ▶ Have demonstrated a record of promoting scientific and academic excellence, including but not limited to teaching and other scholastic activities
- ▶ Have demonstrated excellence in mentorship
- ▶ Have demonstrated a commitment to community engagement
- ▶ Be available to deliver a 30-minute virtual lecture about their work in late July 2021 during Minority Mental Health Month (if selected)

Eligibility:

Exceptional researchers in mental health disparities who demonstrate excellence in:

- ▶ Individual achievements in mental health disparities research
- ▶ Research and knowledge in mental health disparity areas
- ▶ Excellence in mentorship, particularly in supporting black, indigenous, and people of color (BIPOC) trainees

More information:

www.nimh.nih.gov/jacksonaward

For questions or to submit an application, email:

nimhjacksonaward@mail.nih.gov

National Institute of Mental Health